

Figure 1. The "corrected hourly track" of the October 2, 1898 Hurricane. Time is Eastern Standard Time (EST). The solid circles represent an analysis of the SLOSH Model calculated surface pressure field in 4 mb increments at landfall. The dashed line represents the radius of maximum winds. Observed minimum surface pressures and their time of occurrence are shown at Jacksonville, Florida and Savannah, Georgia.